

BOUGHT LIQUOR; GOT WATER.

One Had False Container, Which Lead to Tamm's Arrest.

Philip Wenter of No. 32 Goerck Street contracted on Dec. 27 with Lab. Tamm man, a pedlar of No. 32 Goerck Street, for ten gallons of alcohol at $10. When the field was delivered in two cans Wenter discovered that each contained about half a glass each. The cans were equipped with trick containers, and beneath the ones holding the liquor was ordinary Croton water.

Wenter last night pointed out Tamm man to Detective Harry Raphael, and the pedlar was locked up, charged with violation of the Volstead Act and grand larceny. He will be asked to explain to the Federal authorities.

Our January White Sale Brings

Buyways

When a Parisian woman wishes to pay the highest compliment to another's achievement in dress she says, "C'est elegante." Elegance, to the Parisian woman, means the height of fashion, beauty and richness.
And when one stops to think of it, the Parisian woman's conception of success in dress coincides pretty closely with the New Yorker's.
Elegance is the quality women desire above all else to achieve. And the way they do achieve it is by insisting on Quality, for "elegance is the offspring of quality."

McCreery Fur clearly demonstrate this point. There is nothing unusual or striking about their styles. They are little or no different from other Fur fashions. It is nothing but the superior quality of their pelts that imparts to them that wonderful appearance of elegance. To don a McCreery Fur Coat or Scarf is to take on an air of distinction.
"Elle est elegante."
